

APRA chief visits

On Monday 23 June, the Queensland Law Society's Technology and Intellectual Property Law Committee welcomed the CEO of the Australian and Performing Rights Association (APRA) Brett Cottle and Kate Haddock, a partner at Banki Haddock Fiora.

The committee engaged in a lively and informative discussion on various issues including copyright reform. The committee will continue to liaise with APRA to progress issues of shared interest.

Celebrating EOFY

The end of the financial year has become a popular occasion for celebration. Barristers Caite Brewer, Glenn Dickson and Richard Williams entertained guests at a celebratory function in the Hamilton Lounge at Brisbane City Hall on 20 June.

1. Laura Hanrahan, Kylie Costigan and Zinta Harris.
2. Michele Davis, Kate Redmond and Adele Bentham.
3. Tracey Smith and Karen Gaston.
4. Christine Smyth and Samantha Dillon.
5. Richard Williams, Caite Brewer and Glenn Dickson.
